

Rafael Muñoz is Senior Economist at Banco Mercantil in Venezuela. Rafael's formal education includes his MA in Economics (Concentration on Macroeconomics) at State University of New York at Albany and his Ph.D. in Economics at the University of Essex in the United Kingdom. Currently, he is a Professor of Advanced Macroeconomics in the MA program in Applied Economics Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences at Andrés Bello Catholic University, Caracas-Venezuela. He is also the Professor of the seminar entitled, "Political Uncertainty and Macroeconomic Outcomes". Rafael currently resides in Venezuela where he is also a member of the Advisory Council for the Area of Economics of the Venezuelan newspaper, "El Nacional".